Pennsylvanians expect a free & fair election - and Pennsylvanians DESERVE a free & fair election.

The PA Republican Congressional delegation is demanding that Gov. Wolf and his admin follow the law and ensure that every legal ballot is counted once.

In a letter to AG Barr this week, I urged @TheJusticeDept to take courageous action to safeguard the integrity of the election & ensure that every American’s legal vote is counted once.

The American people deserve, and justice demands, action now. bit.ly/2KS6LVE
Free & fair elections require the American people to have confidence in our electoral system.

I completely agree with my friend Congressman Mo Brooks - Speaker Nancy Pelosi must allow us to hold election fraud hearings in the House ahead of the January 6 Electoral College vote tally.

Members of Congress must have the TRUTH about the legitimacy and transparency of the November 3 election.

For the sake of our liberty and our American values, I will stand up for President @realDonaldTrump – and our American democracy – by objecting to the Electoral College certification on January 6.

I will never stop fighting for the TRUTH.

“American democracy is possible only as long as the American people have faith in government ‘of, by, and for the people.’ We cannot have truly free and fair elections unless American voters have confidence in the results. In Pennsylvania, Governor Tom Wolf’s unlawful actions – coupled with the hastily passed Act 77 – shrouded this year’s election and spurred rabid distrust in the system. Despite millions of Americans’ efforts to discern the facts, we have not seen a meaningful investigation into the many legitimate accounts of election fraud and irregularities. For the sake of our liberty and our American values, I will stand up for President Trump – and our American democracy – by objecting to the Electoral College certification on January 6.”
Today I signed the official objection to the Pennsylvania electors ahead of tomorrow’s Electoral College certification vote.

We must fight for free and fair elections - and the rule of law.

Heading down to the House Floor as we stand up for President Donald J. Trump, for our democracy, and for our freedom.

In case you missed it, catch up on my recent column on fighting for free and fair elections. We must always protect government OF, BY, and FOR the people!

For nearly 250 years, free and fair elections have been a hallmark of...

This fight is far from over.

Lawsuits are still outstanding, and the president’s legal challenges have not been given full consideration. Until justice is served, we will continue to take action in this collaborative effort to stand up for our president.

More than 74 million Americans cast a vote for President Trump, and we will not go away quietly into the night.

This election has revealed that America is a deeply divided country. The American people are facing the choice between freedom or socialism, liberty or tyranny, a way forward or a regression back.

The future of our democracy rests on this moment. Our nation is at a crossroads. We must decide which path to take.

For the sake of the “Great American Experiment” that was conceived by our founders and sustained by generations of patriots, I pray that my fellow Americans will join me in fighting for freedom.

Violent and irrational attacks on this body cannot derail the Constitutional responsibility that lies before us. Tonight, I will object to the Electoral College certification to protect the will of Pennsylvania voters, to uphold the law, to restore trust in our electoral system, and to save our Constitution.

"We must ensure that every legal vote is counted and every illegal ballot is rejected. This must be a transparent process with poll watchers allowed access to the canvassing of ballots, especially in places like Philadelphia where there have been allegations of fraud. As several states prepare for recounts and legal challenges, we must allow the process to continue and the courts to apply the facts of the cases to the laws as passed by state legislatures, particularly in Pennsylvania where Governor Wolf and the Democrat-majority state Supreme Court have sought to change the rules in the final moments of the election."

Every legal vote must be counted. We will follow the courts as they apply the facts of the cases to the laws as passed by our legislatures.

In the meantime, state election officials have been put on notice: Pennsylvanians will not tolerate any interference in this process.
The court should apply the merits of the cases presented by the President to the law passed by the general assembly, not to Governor Wolf, not to Secretary Boockvar, and not to the democrat state supreme court that have tried to unilaterally change the rules before this election.
The DOJ has a responsibility to ensure the sanctity of our electoral process, and the American taxpayer has a right to know what federal agencies are doing to protect our democracy.

Friends, we are at a critical time in the fight to ensure ethical elections. Here are a few avenues to help:

1) The Trump campaign is looking for people to oversee counting at county elections offices. If you are interested, please call Peter at 814-273-6347.

2) If you are an attorney, the need for lawyers to oversee the counting of provisional ballots in our district is crucial. If you are a lawyer that lives in Butler, Crawford, Erie, Lawrence, or Mercer County, please email Kathy at KGallagher@porterwright.com.

Despite media headlines, our lawsuit is still alive. Last night we filed a writ of Certiorari with the United States Supreme Court asking them to hear our argument on the constitutionality of Act 77’s mail-in voting scheme. SCOTUS should agree with Commonwealth Court Judge Patricia McCullough, who stated we were likely to win on the merits of our case before the partisan Supreme Court of Pennsylvania tossed our suit on a technicality. Even a remedy that includes prospective relief, meaning for future elections, would be a win for Pennsylvanians who were harmed when the voting laws were changed without amending the Pennsylvania Constitution, the supreme law of the Commonwealth that outlines explicitly who is eligible to vote by means other than in-person.

“From last minute guidance provided to the counties on the eve of the election, to the Attorney General playing dual roles as a political candidate and legal arbiter with a vested personal interest, to volunteer legal observers being prevented from having access to vote counting locations, we believe these conflicts and irregularities have greatly eroded public trust in the Commonwealth’s electoral system.

“The citizens of the Commonwealth do not just expect free and fair elections, they deserve free and fair elections.

“We believe that every legal vote should be counted, and it is incumbent upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth to discount any votes that do not meet the letter of the law. On Friday, November 6, United States Supreme Court Justice Alito issued a temporary order requiring election officials to segregate ballots received after 8 p.m. on election day. While Secretary Boockvar has indicated this has been occurring in Pennsylvania’s 67 counties, there has been little evidence to support her statements. ...

Today, I joined other Pennsylvania members of the U.S. House of Representatives in releasing a statement regarding the certification of electors. See below for the full release:

*The unlawful actions include, but are not limited to:
- Accepting ballots past 8:00 pm on Election Day
- Not properly requiring signatures to match those on mail-in ballots or requiring dates
- Unauthorized access to mail-in ballots with less than a 24-hour notice
- Only some counties were informed and signed to this order leaving voters treated unequally from county to county
- Authorizing the use of unsecured drop boxes, which is not permitted in statute
- Prohibiting certified poll watchers overseeing the canvassing of ballots in Philadelphia

These unlawful actions were taken without the authority or consent of the Pennsylvania state legislature. These are facts, and they are indisputable.

Additionally, the Pennsylvania Attorney General did nothing with regard to these unlawful activities.

Not one inquiry, no questioning, and certainly no investigations. Not to mention that hundreds, if not thousands, of affidavits outlining election complaints and potential fraud were documented, submitted, and ignored. The Pennsylvania election could be summed up as a free-for-all with no oversight and different standards applied throughout the Commonwealth. It is also very apparent that the unlawful actions described were concentrated in heavily populated, Democrat-led counties.

By definition, such unlawful, unregulated, and inconsistent activities resulted in a highly questionable and inaccurate vote count. The scope of these inaccuracies cannot be known until the legal ballots are identified and counted, and the illegal ballots are disqualified. This has not been done.

Therefore, the state's official certification of electors was based upon a flawed system and an inaccurate vote count. This, very possibly resulting in an erroneous certification.

Unfortunately, the many unlawful actions undertaken by the state, and what has been described as an unlawful manner to circumvent the state legislature's clear consensus.

Congressman Dan Meuser
January 5 at 11:08 AM

Fellow Pennsylvanians: the local papers are missing the point which is very focused on ensuring election integrity. The U.S. constitutional authority of the state legislature to enact changes to election law was usurped by state officials, leading to unlawful activities which resulted in an indisputably inaccurate vote count as it is indisputable that illegal votes were counted. Please see below for my full comments.

The U.S. Constitution is unambiguous in declaring that state legislatures are the entity with the authority to set election procedures and to enact any changes to election law. Article 1, Section 4, Clause 1 states, “The Times, Places and Manner of holding Elections for Senators and Representatives, shall be prescribed in each State by the Legislature thereof.”

Again, the Constitution is clear with no room for misinterpretation. The authority of election procedures lies with the state legislature, period. In Pennsylvania, this authority was indisputably usurped by the Pennsylvania Governor’s Office, by the Pennsylvania Secretary of State and by the Pennsylvania state Supreme Court.

It is my duty as a member of the U.S. House of Representatives to oppose clear and present violations of the Constitution, which took place prior, during, and after the Pennsylvania election. These actions include but are not limited to:

• Accepting ballots past 8:00 pm on Election Day
• Inconsistent application of verified signature requirements for in-person ballots at polling locations versus mail-in ballots.
• Authorizing the curing of mail-in ballots with less than a 24-hour’s notice, leading to inconsistent preparedness between counties.
• Authorizing the use of unsecure drop boxes, which is not permitted in statute.

These actions were taken without the authority or consent of the Pennsylvania state legislature. These are facts. They are indisputable. It is also very apparent that the unlawful actions described were concentrated in heavily populated, Democrat-led counties. If such unlawful actions are to be accepted, what do we have to look forward to next year? Online or call-in voting because it may be raining in Philadelphia?

Such unregulated, and inconsistent activities resulted in a patently questionable and inaccurate vote total. The scope of these inaccuracies cannot be known until the legal ballots are identified and counted, and the illegal ballots are disqualified. This has not been done. Therefore, the state's official certification of electors was based upon a flawed system and an inaccurate vote count.

It is important for my constituents and the people of Pennsylvania to recognize that my reluctance to certifying Pennsylvania’s presidential electors is not unprecedented. In fact, Democrat members of the House have objected to certifying electors following the last three presidential elections when a Republican won. This includes 2001, 2005, and 2017.

In 2005, Speaker Pelosi made the following comments on the House Floor while leader of the Democrat caucus: “The Members of Congress who have brought this challenge are speaking up for their aggrieved constituents, many of whom have been disenfranchised in this process. This is their only opportunity to have this debate while the country is listening, and it is appropriate to do so. We have a responsibility to take advantage of it. The right to vote is the foundation of our democracy. A discussion of that foundation, again, should not be considered frivolous.”

Speaker Pelosi was absolutely right then and her words reflect the same intentions of today’s effort. The idea that local papers would describe this as an effort to disenfranchise voters is hypocrisy at its finest. Did they describe it this way when Democrats opposed electors following the last three Republican presidential victories?

If there is an American ideal that all citizens, regardless of party affiliation, can agree upon it is that we must have election integrity. It is essential that the law be followed, illegal ballots disqualified, and only legal ballots be counted. Until then, I have no choice but to object to the certification of these electors and allow the constitutional procedure of certifying ballots to run its course.

Moving Forward – We Must Focus On The Greater Good

The violent protests and the storming of the Capitol last week did not dissuade our responsibility as members of Congress to carry out our constitutional role in certifying the results of this past presidential election. I commend Vice President Mike Pence for his leadership in carrying out his oath of office and putting his country first. Yesterday, the Vice President stated, “I will not now yield efforts in the House of Representatives to play political games at a time so serious in the life of our Nation.”

Last week’s tragic events also did not sway my resolve to highlight the highly irregular actions taken by state officials in Pennsylvania during the last election. The Constitution very clearly states that ‘The Times, Places and Manner of holding Elections … shall be prescribed in each State by the Legislature thereof…’ In multiple instances, state officials acted outside their authority, usurping the constitutional authority of the Pennsylvania state legislature.

It must be understood that due to the electoral certification procedures requiring a majority of members of the House and Senate to vote, there was little to no chance that my objection to the Pennsylvania electors would overturn the results of the election. I have stated that consistently to anyone who asked for the last several weeks. It is also important to note that my focus was never centered on unproven claims of fraud. This is why I did not object to the certification of Arizona electors.

As an elected official, I have a responsibility to be the people’s voice in Washington. There are many, many across the commonwealth who do indeed feel disenfranchised. The electoral certification process was the appropriate venue to address these concerns. Speaker Pelosi in 2005, when 31 Democrats objected to the electoral certification for Ohio, professed, “The Members of Congress who have brought this challenge are speaking up for their aggrieved constituents, many of whom have been disenfranchised in this process.” These words from Speaker Nancy Pelosi were appropriate then as they are now.

My questioning of the Pennsylvania electors will help illuminate this constitutional question to the United States Supreme Court. It is my understanding the U.S. Supreme Court will consider and rule on whether the actions taken in Pennsylvania, without the authority of the state legislature, were unconstitutional. In the end, I believe we will be vindicated by the court in affirming that only state legislatures make election law and procedure. The Court’s ruling will be prospective, not retroactive, and will bring consistency and integrity to our system of elections. This will be to the benefit of Democrats and Republicans and build widespread trust in our election process.

The U.S. Marshals Service is also available to ensure that judicial orders are carried out. When it comes to a federal election, it should not matter whether those judicial orders come from a state or federal court. For example, if a state court orders that observers can watch ballot counting in a federal election, no local election official should be able to defy that order.

With that in mind, we request an immediate response to the following questions. What are you doing to ensure the integrity of the voting and counting process right now? Will you commit to using all the resources at your disposal to ensure that only legal votes are being counted and being counted in a fully transparent manner immediately?

Voter Fraud Report Form - Formstack
Every American wants to be confident that our elections are secure and that all eligible votes are counted efficiently and in a transparent manner. From what I have witnessed, this is certainly true in our congressional district, Lancaster County and southern York County.

Any candidate, including President Trump, is well within their right to request a recount, call for investigation where evidence presents itself, and utilize legal options, consistent with our elections’ process. As a society that respects law and order, allegations of misconduct and fraud are to be vigorously investigated.

It is in the interest of all Pennsylvania voters for Attorney General Josh Shapiro and Secretary of State Kathy Boockvar to recuse themselves from election-related investigations. Both have made highly partisan statements regarding President Trump; additionally, AG Shapiro is himself a candidate on the current ballot. Pennsylvanians need an independent and non-partisan official to conduct these reviews. Secretary of State Boockvar also has issued contradictory guidance to counties, including the last-minute change in guidance for the pre-canvas and canvassing of mail-in votes received after 8 p.m. on Election Day.

In light of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court decision and actions taken by Secretary of State Boockvar, the Pennsylvania General Assembly should reevaluate their recent election law reform legislation to ensure that ballots can be counted in a timely fashion and whether it opened the door to potential fraud or misconduct.

While some races have yet to be called, I would encourage everyone to have patience as the final results are tabulated and released. Regardless of party, all Americans must accept the results of the election once they are certified, including President Trump and former Vice President Biden.
This weekend I joined my PA House GOP colleagues in calling on Gov. Wolf, AG Shapiro & Sec. Boockvar to make certain that all legal ballots are properly counted.

(2/2) Free & fair #elections demand compliance with the actual law, not the political whims of a handful of liberal officials like #PA Governor Wolf, Secretary Boockvar and Attorney General Shapiro. We cannot back down, we cannot sit on the sidelines, there is too much at stake.
